GENERAL—I received your note of this morning, on the picket line, whither I had come to meet you and ascertain definitely what terms were embraced in your proposition of yesterday with reference to the surrender of this army.

I now request an interview in accordance with the offer contained in your letter of yesterday for that purpose.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. E. LEE, General.

To Lieut.-Gen. GRANT, Commanding United States Armies.

SUNDAY, April 9, 1865.

Gen. R. E. Lee, Commanding Confederate States Armies.

Your note of this date is but this moment, 11:50 A. M., received.

In consequence of my having passed from the Richmond and Lynchburgh road to the Farmville and Lynchburgh road, I am at this writing about four miles West of Walter's church, and will push forward to the front for the purpose of meeting you.

Notice sent to me, on this road, where you wish the interview to take place, will meet me.

Very respectfully, your ob'd't servant,

U. S. GRANT, Lieutenant-General.

APPOMATTOX COURT-HOUSE, April 9, 1865.

General R. E. Lee, Commanding C. S. A.:

In accordance with the substance of my letters to you of the 8th inst., I propose to receive the surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia on the following terms, to wit:

Rolls of all the officers and men to be made in duplicate, one copy to be given to an officer designated by me, the other to be retained by such officers as you may designate.

The officers to give their individual parolee not to take arms against the Government of the United States until properly exchanged, and each company or regimental commander sign a like parole for the men of their commands.

The arms, artillery and public property to be packed and stacked and turned over to the officers appointed by me to receive them.

This will not embrace the side-arms of the officers, nor their private horses or baggage.

This done, EACH OFFICER AND MAN WILL BE ALLOWED TO RETURN TO THEIR HOMES, not to be disturbed by United States authority so long as they observe their parole and the laws in force where they reside.

Very respectfully,

U. S. GRANT, Lieutenant-General.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF NORTHERN VIRGINIA, April 9, 1865.

Lieut.-Gen. U. S. Grant, Commanding U. S. A.:

GENERAL: I have received your letter of this date, CONTAINING THE TERMS OF SURRENDER OF THE ARMY OF NORTHERN VIRGINIA, as proposed by you. As they are substantially the same as those expressed in your letter of the 8th inst., THEY ARE ACCEPTED. I will proceed to designate the proper officers to carry the stipulations into effect.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

R. E. LEE, General.

THE PRELIMINARY CORRESPONDENCE.

The following is the previous correspondence between Lieut.-Gen. GRANT and Gen. LEE, referred to in the foregoing telegram to the Secretary of War:

CLIFTON HOUSE, VA., April 9, 1865.

Hon. Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

The following correspondence has taken place between Gen. LEE and myself. There has been no relaxation in the pursuit during its pendency.

U. S. GRANT, Lieutenant-General.

April 7, 1865.

Gen. R. E. Lee, Commanding C. S. A.:

GENERAL: The result of the last week must convince you of the hopelessness of further resistance on the part of the Army of Northern Virginia in this struggle. I feel that it is so and regard it as my duty to shift from myself the responsibility of any further effusion of blood, by asking of you the surrender of that portion of the Confederate States Army, known as the Army of Northern Virginia.

Very Respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

U. S. GRANT, Lieutenant-General, Commanding Armies of the United States.

April 7, 1865.

General: I have received your note of this date.

Though not entirely of the opinion you express of the hopelessness of further resistence on the part of the army of Northern Virginia, I reciprocate your desire to avoid useless effusion of blood, and therefore, before considering your proposition, ask the terms you will offer, on condition of its surrender.

R. E. LEE, General.

To Lieut.-Gen. U. S. GRANT, Commanding Armies of the United States.

April 8, 1865.

To Gen. R. E. Lee, Commanding C. S. A.:

GENERAL: Your note of last evening in reply to mine of same date, asking the conditions on which I will accept the surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia, is just received.

In reply, I would say that peace being my first desire, there is but one condition that I insist upon, viz.:

That the men surrendered shall be disqualified for taking up arms again against the Government of the United States until properly exchanged.

I will meet you, or designate officers to meet any officers you may name, for the same purpose, at any point agreeable to you, for the purpose of arranging definitely the terms upon which the surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia will be received.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

U. S. GRANT, Lieut.-General, Commanding armies of the United States.

April 8, 1865.

GENERAL: I received, at a late hour, your note of to-day, in answer to mine of yesterday.

I did not intend to propose the surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia, but to ask the terms of your proposition. To be frank, I do not think the emergency has arisen to call for the surrender.

But as the restoration of peace should be the sole object of all, I desire to know whether your proposals would tend to that end.

I cannot, therefore, meet you with a view to surrender the Army of Northern Virginia, but as far as your proposition may affect the Confederate States forces under my command, and tend to the restoration of peace, I should be pleased to meet you at 10 A. M., to-morrow, on the old stage road to Richmond, between the picket lines of the two armies.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

R. E. LEE, General, C. S. A.

To Lieut.-Gen. GRANT, Commanding Armies of the United States.

April 9, 1865.

General R. E. Lee, commanding C. S. A.:

GENERAL: Your note of yesterday is received. As I have no authority to treat on the subject of peace, the meeting proposed for 10 A. M. to-day could lead to no good. I will state, however, General, that I am equally anxious for peace with yourself; and the whole North entertain the same feeling. The terms upon which peace can be had are well understood. By the South laying down their arms, they will hasten that most desirable event, save thousands of human lives, and hundreds of millions of property not yet destroyed.

Sincerely hoping that all our difficulties may be settled without the loss of another life, I subscribe myself,

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

U. S. GRANT, Lieutenant-General United States Army.

FROM THE PACIFIC COAST.

Juarez said to be Coming to Washington by way of San Francisco—French Forces in Sinaloa—French War Steamers in California Ports—The Overland Mails.

SAN FRANCISCO, Friday, April 7.

The steamer John L. Stephens, from Mazatlan, brings $93,000 in treasure and a thousand bags of silver ore.

The Mazatlan Times, the Imperialist organ, give the report that JUAREZ was en route for Cape St. Lucas, whence he would sail for San Francisco on his way to Washington.

A French naval expedition had sailed, it was supposed, for Guaymas.

An Imperial force has moved to Sinaloa.

A correspondent of the San Francisco Bulletin, writing from Mazatlan, March 4, says that JUAREZ is still at Chihuahua with his ministers raising troops, though money, arms, and ammunition are scarce.

The French war steamer Victoria and transport Du Rhine was at Santa Barbara, on the coast of California. They hope to obtain supplies of coal at San Francisco.

The daily Overland Mail, hence to Salt Lake, resumed its trips yesterday. The first mail this way since the interruption arrived last night.

The recent meeting in behalf of the Christian Sanitary Commission, resulted in remittances, by telegraph, within the past few days, of $20,000 in gold.

The scarcity of flour and wheat continues. Extreme prices are obtained, and consequently trade does not improve much.

The Union Convention of Washington Territory have nominated A. A. Denny as Congressional Delegate.

Military celebrations for the national victories were held throughout the State to-day.

A mass meeting in aid of the Soldiers' Relief Association was held here to-night.

FROM RICHMOND.

From Our Own Correspondent.

RICHMOND, Va., Wednesday, April 5.

The inspiration of the scene and the scenes of the theme before us are far beyond the feeble descriptive powers of of the pen of your correspondent. No brilliant rhetoric, no vivid word-painting, no oratorical eloquence can portray the sublimity and immensity of the great victory. It is almost beyond the power of the human mind to comprehend its extent, and when you begin to descend to detail, the task is simply appalling in its magnitude. Think of a line of operations, held defensively and operated from offensively with such success, thirty-nine miles long from flank to flank, thoroughly fortified throughout its entire length! Think of the cities captured, of the fortifications stormed and taken, with their hundreds of guns, great and small, of the material of war now in our hands, yet beyond the possibility of computation of the terrible battles, and the overwhelming defeat, and rout of the chief army of the rob cities of the prisoners captured. Counted by the tens of thousands, of the terrified flight of the arch-traitor and his few desperate minions; of the triumphant entry of ABRAHAM LINCOLN into treason's fallen capital. Let every lover of his country depict the vast scene in his own imagination for words to fitly discribe it falls altogether.

Through the courtesy of Provost-Marshal Gen. PATRICK, I enjoyed an exceedingly pleasant sail from City Point to the Richmond wharves this morning, on his fleet-ing ship, the Martina. Accompanying the General were Hon. C. H. DANA, Assistant Secretary of War, his wife and son, and Hon. ROSCOE CONKLING, member of Congress from New-York. The snake-like bends of the James between City Point and Varina Landing, were quickly passed, and at the latter place assurance was given that the river was clear for our vessel to the very docks of Richmond; but I can assure you that the navigation of the tortuous channel of the James thence to Richmond, thickly sown with obstructions and supposed torpedoes, was an exceedingly delicate task, and full of excitement. Our pilot knew the channel of old, but he knew not the warlike devices of the enemy.

We were, however, very fortunate, and the approach to the city, especially during the last eight miles from Drewry's Bluff, was full of the intensest interest, for over these waters the Union flag had never before floated during the war. When we leave Dutch Gap and that famous canal, which looks as though it might have been washed out by a billow, we at once enter upon the lines held by the enemy. Howlett House Battery, famous for its determined resistance to our engineering operations on the north side of the river, stands abandoned and gloomy, with its twelve large guns still in the embrasures, but all silent as we steamed rapidly by. Another long and large earthwork appears on the left bank, mounting eight or ten guns, and bearing directly upon the mouth of the canal. This, too, like the rest, is abandoned, with its armament unimpaired. We next pass the wreck of the rebel gunboat, blown up by our batteries during the effort made to run through our fleet some months ago.

The next point of interest is Fort Brady, on the north bank of the river, and the left of the position of our Army of the James. What strikes one as very remarkable here is the fact that owing to the intricate windings of the James there are two rebel batteries, Howlett House and another, absolutely in the rear of this former position of our army. Fort Brady is the point where Gen. GRANT opened on the retreating rebel hosts. Had there been larger guns at his disposal, the range is so good that they would have stood a poor chance of escape.

We are now fairly in that part of the river held solely by the rebels, and a knowledge of the channel and obstructions is absolutely necessary to a safe voyage. The gunboat Montauk is therefore hailed, and on asking for information, a pilot who has been up and down is tendered with much politeness. The obstructions sunk by our own fleet are soon passed, likewise the fleet of monitors, and the next object which greets the vision is a gaily dressed tug, with a guard of marines, having in tow Admiral PORTER's barge with the President, on his return from Richmond, complacently seated in the stern sheets. It looks very much like a pic-nic. Following a short distance after is the President's flag-ship, the River Queen. Not far behind is the beautiful steel gunboat Bat, ex-blockade runner, now general convoy to distinguished guests, and one of the fastest vessels in the navy. The River Queen, which took the President up the river, proceeded no further than the obstructions at Drewry's Bluff. We are soon abreast of this historic fortification, and eager eyes scan closely its formidable walls and positions.

Here is the chief line of obstructions sunk by the rebels early in the war, and located as they are, directly under the guns of Fort Darling, subjecting every approaching thing to a terrible plunging fire, it is readily admitted that this was the insurmountable barrier to the naval advance on Richmond. The river here is very narrow, and the movement of large vessels attended with much danger. The obstructions were placed directly across the river, and filled it completely with the exception of a gap of fifty or sixty feet, left for the passage of the rebel fleet and flag-of-truce boats. They consist of the hulls of two or three old steamships, that formerly plied between Richmond and New York. The wheel-houses, fast crumbling to decay, still rise above the water, and present the appearance of a melancholy ruin.

We pass so hurriedly under the guns of Fort Darling, that we have no good opportunity to observe its construction. We know it looks very strong, and on the north side it has one or two small outlying works on its flank. Our naval companions tell us that it is a casemated fortification, and with its surrounding field works, all parts of the fort built, mounts not less than forty guns. All these, like hundreds more, are our trophies without blemish or injury.

Not far above Fort Darling lies the wreck of one of the famous rebel fleet in the James, the iron-clad Virginia. Whether she has been blown up or simply scuttled and sunk, cannot be ascertained from looking at her as she lies. She sank in deep water, and is covered over on her side, leaving a portion of her overhang visible above the water-line. Of the other iron-clad, the Richmond, we find no trace.

In the immediate vicinity of Fort Darling we pass through a very substantial bridge with a draw, used by LEE for the speedy transfer of troops from the north to the south side of the James. Ere reaching Richmond we pass two more of the same kind, though hardly so well built as the first; but all demonstrating that LEE had no pontoon bridges across the James anywhere—probably, because the rapid current rendered them unsafe, and probably, too, because he had not any pontoons to spare, when something else would answer just as well.

We have now steamed safely by all obstructions and chevaux of torpedoes, and the very formidable fortification which we felt in view of our possible danger, gives way to a feeling that just now is a moment in our lives, the significance, importance and sublimity of which cannot be justly appreciated. The City of Richmond is in view. The spires pointing heavenward; the smoke still rising from the conflagration's awful ruin, and the Stars and Stripes floating from a hundred house-tops and masheads, all form a picture so sublimely grand and inspiring, that the human mind is simply lost in mute contemplation.

In a few moments we land at the Rocketts, and a brisk walk of a mile and a half brings us to the Spotswood House, where we find dinner and a very comfortable room, amid hundreds of loyal guests.

First Impressions of Richmond—The Great Conflagration in the City—Who Was Responsible for It?—The Libby and Castle Thunder—Suffering for Food—Distribution of Supplies—Lee's Family.

From Our Own Correspondent.

RICHMOND, Thursday, April 6, 1865.

So many thousand facts are presented to the mind of the visitor here in such a very short space of time, that to record them systematically is almost impossible. The great features of the evacuation, the entrance of our troops, the conflagration, the President's visit and reception, have already been forwarded to you in detail by your correspondents who came in with the troops, and I will, therefore, allude to them only in a general way.

Let me say, though, at the outset, that the best part of the city is a ruin. That the awful fire kindled by the enemy, and which at first promised to consume but a few buildings, was so fanned by the rising wind, that before it could be got under subjection, thirty squares, comprising not less than eight hundred buildings in the very best and most valuable business part of Richmond were in ashes. What the pecuniary loss is no one can estimate. Nearly all the principal mills, factories, warehouses, stores, banks and insurance offices were destroyed, and the losses being so heavy, the insurance companies, perhaps insolvent already from their countenance of the rebel currency, are now more than bankrupted, and thousands of property owners, computed wealthy in their actual possessions three days ago, are now reduced to beggary. It is among the things easily discernable, that this ruin, wrought by their own friends, to whom they have given all, and to whose tyranny they have submitted, with even cheerfulness, is the cause of far deeper gloom among many than that produced by the loss of the city or the defeat of their army. It is apparent indeed that the transfer of the city to the Union flag was not only not distasteful to a very large portion of the people, many of them among the best classes, but even highly gratifying. No captured city, not even Savannah nor Columbia, can present the ruin apparent here in Richmond. It will carry its painful evidences for half a score of years, and the only thing which will speedily alleviate the dire distress that must prevail, and give the city a chance for a speedy recovery from its present stagnation, is immediate peace. It is Richmond's only salvation. The origin of the fire and the incendiaries are so well and positively known that no extended investigation on these points is required. It seems that Gen. Lee was not responsible for it, but that Jeff. Davis and his Secretary of War, Breckenridge, were. The destruction of the supplies was the crowning act involved the destruction of the city, and it was so decided by the leading citizens. Gen. EWELL and Maj. CARRINGTON both protested against it in the most earnest manner, as did also a committee of citizens, but BRECKENRIDGE, in reply, exclaimed that he didn't care a d—n if every house in Richmond was consumed, the warehouses must be burned. Thus this wretched rebel, foisted into a powerful position with no constituents, is responsible for the dreadful ruin, and his master DAVIS is likewise responsible, because he silently countenanced it.

The fire was started in two places, among the supply warehouses near the wharves, and at the Danville Depot, where there were 1,500 hogsheads of tobacco belonging to the Confederate Government. This consumed the Danville Depot, also the Petersburgh Depot, and the bridge over the James to Manchester. The famous Libby Prison, and Castle Thunder, as I have already informed you, were not burned. They were reserved for a far more appropriate fate. I visited them yesterday, and found Castle Thunder used as a guard-house for gamblers and thieving negroes, caught in acts of plunder, while the Libby contained 700 rebel prisoners, officers and privates, temporarily shut up together. They looked through the iron gratings with gloomy countenances, while the Union guard outside seemed to richly enjoy the transition that the famous building had undergone, evidently having been there himself. The whirligig of time makes all things even, and the thousands of loyal officers and soldiers who have suffered the tortures and horrors of these dungeons may now contemplate their present uses with serene satisfaction, and yet without resentment.

A close inspection of Castle Thunder reveals one of the most hideous dungeons that can be conceived. We failed to see it, however, in all its filth and emptiness, for a strong force of men had been engaged two days in carrying out the accumulation of the past three years. The corporal of the guard who conducted us through, pointed out a spot on the floor on one of the main halls, not yet cleansed, where the dirt was three inches thick, and alive with vermin, and yet on this floor, in this condition, prisoners were obliged to sleep either upon the dirt itself or upon pallets of decaying straw.

But I will not descend further upon this vile relic of the rebellion. Its career is too well known. The prisoners confined here, it will be recollected, were those against whom special vengeance was directed, prisoners of State, persons charged with harboring Union prisoners, Union officers charged with being out in the bush-rangers, &c. Well has it been said that a confinement in Castle Thunder is a foretaste of the tortures of the damned.

This building, together with the Libby belongs to the estate of JOHN RITCHIE, and, was leased by the rebel Government. They were originally built for stores, but subsequently altered into tobacco manufactories. But their base uses are now at an end.

This is the fourth day of the Union occupation, and the confusion in the city necessarily attendant upon such an evacuation, and such an occupation, is gradually subsiding. Could the ruins of the fire be removed from sight, Richmond would present an attractive appearance, for it is really a handsome city; but, after all, the saddest feature up at the headquarters of the Provost-Marshal, the Commissioners of Subsistence, and the office of Sanitary Commission, the latter being already established here. Gen. WEITZEL had no sooner established his headquarters here than thousands of citizens besieged him for rations. And as the city is now shut out from all supplies from the country, the crowd of applicants for subsistence is rapidly increasing. This morning there was nothing in the markets but a few small fish caught by negroes. The Capitol, the City Hall and the Capitol-square are filled with a great throng of all classes, condition, sexes and ages, with basket in hand and an appealing expression of face. What the regulations yet are in regard to the issue of rations to the citizens, I do not know, but a limited quantity is being supplied them at present.

In order to study this peculiar social feature of the rebellion, I mingled with these crowds this morning for a short time, to observe their temper, desires and condition. They were, of course, largely made up of what appeared to be the poorer classes, and many negroes were among them, some for subsistence for themselves and some as servants of families. I found many whose intelligent expression of countenance, fair features and attempted gentility of dress, indicated that they were of the higher classes, on whom the demands of want and hunger were as insatiable as upon those of less position. I noticed several ladies approach the officer in charge of the City Hall, genteelly attired, and with their faces so closely veiled as to defy the gaze of a casual eye. They spoke in such tremulous tones when giving their names as to cause us to suspect their names were as foreign to them as the hunger they now sought to appease had been in days gone by. Many of the wealthiest families, however, who had the means, have far larger supplies of provisions on hand than was consistent with the repeated appeals of Confederate officials for such to spare from their bounty to feed the army.

The exodus of prominent citizens was confined mainly to those connected with the rebel government, and a few who had made themselves very conspicuous in rebel politics—all the rebel Cabinet and their chief assistants, though not much of their clerical force, got away. The preparations for the evacuation began very quietly among the officials. At noon of Sunday the important records of the departments were boxed up and carted to the depot; but very little suspicion was excited among the citizens as to the real state of the case. A strong guard was stationed at the Danville depot, and four trains were got ready, the first of which left, with DAVIS on board, at seven o'clock in the evening, and the last at midnight. DAVIS' family had gone into the country on the Friday preceeding, but not because of any apprehension that the city was to be given up. Very few families left the city, and there are very few vacant houses, the mansions of JEFF. DAVIS and Gov. BILLY SMITH being among those now in want of tenants. The family of Gen. LEE, consisting of his wife, who is an invalid, and three daughters, are among those who remain. They occupy a stylish house on Franklin-street, and for their protection a well disciplined guard is placed at the dwelling, and the family are scrupulously protected from annoyance of any character, the staring gaze of the passer-by hardly being allowed. This is the second time that Mrs. Gen. LEE has been in our hands. She was once captured by our cavalry near White House, in 1862, and sent through our lines to Richmond under flag of truce, by order of Gen. MCCLELLAN.

Union Sentiment in Richmond—Projects of Reconstruction—Distinguished Visitors—Recruiting Negro Troops—The Truth about Rebel Enlistment of Negroes.

From Our Own Correspondent.

RICHMOND, Friday, April 7, 1865.

I can give you news, to-day, which will gratify the heart of every loyal American. Virginia will return to the Union, and that right speedily. Desiring to ascertain the exact truth with reference to the alleged existence of a strong Union sentiment in the city, I availed myself of an opportunity to call upon certain gentlemen here whom I had heard alluded to by Secessionists as Union men, and I must say, that I spent two of the happiest hours of my life in full and free conversation with some of the most thorough and radical Union men in the country; men of wealth and position, whose faith has never wavered for an instant, and who, slaveholders, as they are, demand that Virginia shall be taken back into the Union "under the Emancipation Proclamation" that no vestige of the rebellion shall be tolerated; that the usurpation State, and Confederate, which has wrecked Virginia, shall not be recognized in a single respect; that the State Government must be organized anew, by a convention of the people, as soon as that can be properly effected, and the State and its inhabitants thoroughly purged of treason in every shape.

Union sentiments, in this strong form exist here to a far greater extent than has yet been conceived; not alone among the poorer classes,—mechanics and laborers,—but in wealthy and influential circles, where may be found men who have never lost faith in the Union; who have confidently anticipated its triumph, and who greeted the old flag with tears of joy. They are men of the John Minor Botts school, and they are the leaven which shall leaven the whole lump here in this venerable old commonwealth of Virginia. They will delight to see the stars of the people dotted with magnanimity, but they have lost too deeply the LEATHER—The movements in this line, during the past week, Messrs. HIGGINS & Co. notice thus: "For Hemlock Sole the market continues extremely active, under an almost entire cessation of supply from any section. The few small parcels selling are taken by manufacturers to supply immediate requirements. We reduce our quotations to conform with the small transactions effected this week, but they must be considered entirely nominal, the business done being too meagre to establish a market rate. The receipts for the week amount to nearly 40,000 Sides, somewhat increasing the stock, which, though not large for the season, is ample, in view of the limited demand. Oak Sole—Buyers, were there any, would probably find prices in their favor. In the absence of sales, with moderate receipts, the supply is accumulating. THE AMERICAN UNION COMMISSION.

This Commission is engaged in the great work of relieving the extreme destitution and sufferings of refugees. They come to us at all the military posts of the West and Northwest, and along the Atlantic Coast, as well as at Washington, Baltimore and New-York, for clothing, shelter, transportation and homes. The late movements of our armies have doubled refugee emigration, and the claims upon us for disbursements of money and distribution of supplies have increased proportionately. We need additional clothing and money for men and children. Many of them are sick, and need special provision and care. Contributions of money can be sent to D. A. Hatch, Esq., President of the Shoe and Leather Bank; clothing and supplies to No. 14 Bible House. Persons in the city or country needing refugee laborers can apply by letter or personally at No. 14 Bible House.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

The evening of Palm Sunday, sacred to the PRINCE OF PEACE, was made ever memorable and glorious in the history of this nation, by the announcement of the SURRENDER OF GEN. LEE AND HIS WHOLE ARMY. It is the harbinger of an immediate and glorious Peace, a Peace gloriously won by the grand courage, endurance, and unshaken faith in their cause of the splendid Armies of the Potomac and the James, aided by their glory-crowned brethren under SHERIDAN and THOMAS and HANCOCK, and the heroes of the ocean who have kept watch and ward along our coasts from the Delaware to the Rio Grande. The news is none the less welcome because prematurely announced, none the less glorious and important because for many days considered a foregone conclusion. It is the end of the Confederacy. There may be sporadic efforts here and there; JOHNSTON may venture a battle; Mobile may undertake a half resistance; the rebel troops west of the Mississippi may indulge in irregular campaigns; but LEE has surrendered—LEE, their Commander-in Chief, and practically Dictator; LEE, upon whose shoulders, by universal consent, has for half a year rested the fortunes of the rebellion, has abandoned their cause as hopeless. He surrendered an army never surpassed in bravery, in suffering, in persistence in a bad cause—an army that had everything to gain by success—everything to lose by defeat. The corner-stone is removed—the edifice has fallen beyond the possibility of restoration. It is the greatest and most important event for this country since the imperishable Declaration of July 4, 1776, the most momentous fact of the century as affecting the stability of democratic government. It will be hailed, not only in our own land, but wherever mankind aspires to freedom and progress, as a turning point in the history of man.

The facts preceding and concluding this blessed result may be here briefly stated as follows: From the hour of SHERIDAN'S victory over LEE'S right wing, on Saturday week, followed immediately by the grand assault along the whole line and the capture of Petersburgh, the Confederate cause was lost. The evacuation of Richmond on the following Sunday, put LEE in rapid and almost disorderly retreat. He hoped to be able to escape by or around Burkesville Junction, with a mere chance of getting off toward North Carolina, and perhaps with a faint prospect of forming a junction with JOHNSTON. But GRANT'S pursuit was too vigorously pressed. His irresistible cavalry, led by the hero of the Shenandoah, and backed by GRANT in personal commands, swept down the Southside Road, seized the junction, shut LEE off from so much as crossing the Appomattox, and forced him to abandon all hope of help from JOHNSTON. That LEE struggled hard and fought hard to avoid this disaster, our columns have already shown. He had, then, but two things to do; to make his way to Lynchburgh, where he could only hide behind his vast fortifications and be starved out, or come to a complete surrender. Lynchburgh, strong by nature by art, would have been a place of safety for the present, if he had reached it. But GRANT had already provided for this emergency; THOMAS was coming from East Tennessee, and SCHOFIELD from the Shenandoah Valley with powerful columns, which, with GRANT'S own forces, would speedily have besieged the rebel chief with a circumvallation of bayonets that for half a year have glistened with victory; every avenue of supplies would have been in our hands; every railroad, canal, river and turnpike would have been crossed by our fortifications; to remain would have been death—to fight out would have been accepting odds that might have appalled the most reckless. Thus brought to bay, and hourly harrassed by a pursuit that knew no such word as rest, LEE has succumbed to his fate. It seems that on Saturday, Gen. GRANT sent some note to LEE intimating that he was willing to accept reasonable terms of submission. This appears to heen anticipated by LEE, who was on his picket-line when the note reached him. He replied, desiring an interview. GRANT returned answer that he would hurry forward to meet him. The next note gives the terms proposed by GRANT, which are as follows:

"I propose to receive the surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia on the following terms, to wit: Rolls of all the officers and men to be made in duplicate, one copy to be given to an officer designated by me, the other to be retained by such officers as you may designate. The officers to give their individual paroles not to take arms against the Government of the United States until properly exchanged, and each company or regimental commander sign a like parole for the men under their commands. The arms, artillery and public property to be packed and stacked and turned over to the officers appointed by me to receive them. This will not embrace the side-arms of the officers, nor their private horses or baggage. This done, each officer and man will be allowed to return to their homes, not to be disturbed by United States authority so long as they observe their parole and the laws in force where they reside.

To this proposition, Gen. LEE immediately returned answer, in the following terms:

I have received your letter of this date, containing the terms of surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia, as proposed by you. As they are substantially the same as those expressed in your letter of the 8th instant, they are accepted. I will proceed to designate the proper officers to to carry the stipulations into effect.

Thus upon terms both honorable and generous, upon terms which place the responsibility of their breach upon the rebel leaders, the only really great army, the main stay and very soul of the rebellion, gracefully yields to the overwhelming power of the Union—that Union soon to rise from its baptism of blood, regenerated, purified, and conscious of a strength that shall withstand alike the jealousies of rival powers abroad and the shocks of treason within.

STATE LEGISLATURE.

In the Senate Saturday, a bill for the protection of the New-York Fire Department Fund was reported; the Subaqueous Dock and Pier Company Bill was ordered to a third reading; also the bill to pay certain extraordinary expenses in Brooklyn. Among the bills passed were: The New-York Riot Bonds Bill; for the protection of planted oysters in Queens County; relative to the State Lunatic Asylum and insane female convicts; to incorporate the New-York and Brooklyn Turkish Bath Company; the Gettysburgh National Monument Bill (it appropriates $25,000.) The Second-avenue Railroad Extension Bill came up on its third reading, and was amended by providing that the company comply with the restrictions and regulations in force, and pay car license to the corporation of New-York, and was then laid aside. The New-York Railroad Consolidation Act was made the special order for Tuesday.

In the Assembly, bills were passed relative to the Howard Home of Little Wanderers in New-York; granting the consent of the State to the sale of certain lands in New-York to the United States for a Custom-house; the New-York and Brooklyn Ferry Railroad Bill passed, by yeas 78, nays 31; a bill was called up relative to the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, to authorize an increase of capital stock, which was lost—53 against 41; the bill relative to criminal offences in the Metropolitan Police District, which prohibits the carrying of concealed weapons without license from the Police Commissioners, was passed; the bill relative to the fund of the Fire Department was referred to the Judiciary Committee, with power to report complete, and a report was immediately handed in.

GENERAL NEWS.

Some nine years ago, Mrs. HENRY SPENCER, of Bethlem, Conn., lost her pocket-book, containing between six and seven hundred dollars in notes and bills, while shopping in Waterbury, and nothing was ever heard from it until a few days ago, when she received a letter from a Catholic priest in Oil City, Penn., requesting her to describe the lost property, which she did. She was soon after rejoiced to have the same returned just as it was lost, excepting that a portion of the bills had been changed to greenbacks, at which she did not complain.

GEO. H. HOYT, the young lawyer of Boston, who went to Virginia to defend JOHN BROWN on his trial, is now lieutenant-colonel of the Fifteenth Kansas Cavalry.

A little Irish girl was shot dead in Hinsdale, N. H., last week, by a son of JOHN PRENTISS, only 10 years old, who performed the act coolly and deliberately.

The subscriptions to the Seven-Thirty Loan on Saturday amounted to $2,567,400. The total subscriptions for the week were $14,895,800.

LOCAL NEWS.

The American Union Commission dispatched to Richmond on Saturday last five hundred barrels of flour, in charge of a trustworthy agent, to relieve the extreme destitution and suffering of refugees in that city. The late movement of our armies have doubled refugee emigration, and the labors and wants of this commission have increased proportionately. We feel assured that its appeal, found in our advertising columns, this morning, will be generously answered by the public.

The trial of Mr. OSBON, recently reporter of naval news for New-York papers, on a charge of having furnished contraband intelligence concerning certain naval expeditions, was begun last week before a military court, of which Brig.-Gen. FITZ-HENRY WARREN is President. After the preliminary proceedings, the case was adjourned until to-day.

The Geological collection in the Central Park has been enriched by the addition of three Cape buffaloes captured near Columbia, South Carolina, by the foragers of Gen. WOOD'S division of the Fourteenth Army Corps, during Gen. SHERMAN'S recent grand northward march. The animals arrived here on Saturday last.

Miss MARIAN MACARTAY, formerly an actress of some considerable repute, died at the Insane Asylum, Indianapolis, on Monday morning of congestion of the brain. She had been an inmate of the Asylum for nearly two years. About three years ago she was a leading soubrette in LAURA KEEN'S theatre in this city.

The last of the jovial crowd who go to see the old flag raised over the ruins of Sumter will leave to-day. They will bear the glorious news of LEE'S surrender, and the magnificent enthusiasm which will follow the announcement, will give a spirit to the celebration that cannot be expressed in words.

Mr. JOHN H. BRADY, the last of the State prisoners at Fort Lafayette, was released on Saturday. It was deemed that his long imprisonment was punishment sufficient for the offence with which he was charged.

Gold closed 148¾ on Saturday. The Stock Market continued active, but Railway prices not so buoyant as on Friday. Money easy.

PEACE!

The Surrender of Gen. Lee—The End of the Great Rebellion.

The great struggle is over. Gen. ROBERT E. LEE and the Army of Northern Virginia surrendered yesterday to Lieut.-Gen. U. S. GRANT and the Army of the Potomac.

The thrilling word PEACE—the glorious fact of PEACE—are now once again to be realized by the American people.

The profound joy of the nation in this auspicious result, cannot be expressed in effervescent enthusiasm and noisy huzzahs; but will appear in the form in which it is so fitly and opportunely proclaimed by the Secretary of War—ascriptions of Praise to Almighty God and offerings of honor to the great leader of our armies, whom he has used as his instrument to save the nation.

The history of blood—the four years of war, are brought to a close. The fratricidal slaughter is all over. The gigantic battles have all been fought. The last man, we trust, has been slain. The last shot has been fired.

We have achieved, too, that for which the war was begun—that for which our soldiers have so long and grandly fought, and that for which so many thousands of brave men have laid down their lives. We have achieved the great triumph, and we get with it the glorious Union. We get with it our country—a country now and forever rejoicing in Universal Freedom. The national courage and endurance have their full reward.

The event occurred on Palm Sunday—the day which commemorates the triumphal entry of Christ into Jerusalem. It will henceforth be a patriotic as well as a pious holiday in America.

Just four years almost to a day has the war lasted. It was on the 13th of April, 1861, that Sumter was surrendered to the rebels. It was on the 9th of April, 1865, that the great rebel army was surrendered to the power of the Union.

The surrender of the army of Gen. LEE solves a thousand difficulties that but lately threatened us in the future. It simplifies the work of pacification in the South. It gives hope for a speedy restoration of order and fraternity.

The correspondence between GRANT and LEE, which we give in full, is very direct and concise. GRANT proposed the surrender on Friday last, and in three days after LEE accepted the terms.

The terms proposed by GRANT are very simple, and doubtless had the approval of the President, who is at Richmond. We get all the rebel officers and soldiers, all the arms, artillery and public property; but the officers retain their side-arms, private baggage and horses. Each officer and man will be allowed to return to their homes, and will not be disturbed.

We have no idea that Jo. JOHNSTON'S forces or any of the other rebel bodies will be of any trouble after this great event. LEE nominally only surrenders his own immediate army; but he is commander of all the armed forces of the rebellion everywhere, and in one of his letters he speaks about negotiating with reference to the whole of the Confederate States forces under his command. This will undoubtedly be the upshot of the whole affair.

The great rebellion is crushed. The Republic is saved. PEACE comes again. To Heaven be the praise.

Harmony Among the Generals of the Army.

Beside the policy of concentration, which Gen. GRANT inaugurated, and to which we have been indebted for the happy results of the last year's fighting, we owe him also that remarkable concert of feeling and action among the Generals, without which no plan of operations could have done us much good. The history of the Army of the Potomac before his day, was mainly made up of squabbles between Generals of corps and of divisions. After MCCLELLAN'S removal, most of these whom he left behind in high commands were either so satisfied that he was the only person who was competent to command the army, or so determined that no one else should command it, that they made all active operations well nigh impossible. They hunted down POPE, who in spite of his bragging, proved himself an able and meritorious officer, and almost sacrificed the army and the nation to their desire to be rid of him. BURNSIDE'S career in the chief command was one happily short struggle with their intrigues. They discussed his plans in the presence of officers and men, and openly predicted their failure; and at last gathering courage with impunity, some of them came up to Washington to get leave of the President to disobey his orders. And Gen. MEADE'S operations, in the earlier period at least of his tenure of office, were marred by the timidity, growing out of the doubts which experience only too fully justified, of the hearty coöperation of those around him. In short, every division and every corps commander was a candidate for the highest place, and felt that the way to get it was to bring about the failure of the actual incumbent.

In such a state of things the wonder is not that we did not make more progress in Virginia, but that we got off so cheaply; not that LEE'S army was not destroyed after three years of desperate fighting, but that it did not destroy ours. Since GRANT took the command in chief, however, we have heard no more of this. He has removed and retained whom he pleased, and we have submitted without a murmur. There have been, undoubtedly, squabbles between Generals; for military officers, like other people, are human, but they have never been allowed to affect the course of events in the field. One or other of the disputants have been invariably packed off to settle his grievances at Washington or elsewhere, and the public has really known nothing of the matter, except that there has been a difference, and that somebody has retired, so that discipline has not been impaired nor the popular confidence weakened by the spectacle of "rows" between superior officers in the presence of the enemy. And we believe there has been but one—and that a very notorious—instance of wilful disobedience of GRANT'S orders, or of the smallest disposition to doubt their wisdom, or even to criticise them.

He has from the outset exercised the power of removing officers from their commands, or transferring them to others, very lavishly without a whimper of complaint from any quarter. Some of the most conspicuous officers of the old Army of the Potomac have since his advance been sent to the West; some of the least known of the Western officers have, on the other hand, been brought to the East; and we doubt if history, except in NAPOLEON'S case, contains a more remarkable example of judgment of character and skill in selection justified by events, than has been afforded during the last year by the career of GRANT'S favorites,—SHERIDAN, SHERMAN, THOMAS, MCPHERSON—have all proved themselves men worthy of the highest place in military annals, and yet though the war has lasted so long, it is only within little more than a year that they have been charged with any very important or conspicuous share in the conduct of it. Nothing short of their entire devotion to the cause, their implicit confidence in their great chief, and their hearty desire to carry out his plans, could have secured the success of the grand and extraordinary combination which has just culminated in the destruction of LEE'S army and the overthrow of the Confederacy. There has been through it all no blind striking, no marching hither and thither for want of anything better to do, or for the sake of making demonstrations. The smallest, as well as the greatest movements have been made to tell on the final result. SHERMAN was marching to Raleigh when he set out from Chattanooga; THOMAS was helping him along when he fought the battle of Nashville; SHERIDAN was helping GRANT when he defeated EARLY in the Valley, and so was TERRY when he stormed Fort Fisher; and all were working diligently for the destruction of LEE'S army.

JOHN BULL'S OBSTINACY AND STUPIDITY.—The British nation is undergoing one of its semi-occasional spasms about railroad accidents. The great problem how to establish communication between the passenger-cars and the engine-driver is again puzzling the brain of our thick-headed old grandmother. It was discussed in Parliament a few nights since, and Mr. MILNER GIBSON made light of it. Whereupon the Times is deluged with letters from persons who say that if Mr. GIBSON had been in their places on such and such occasions, he would have thought it a serious matter. A Mr. POPE narrates his experience. The railway-carriage in which he was seated ran off the track, and although every passenger in it put his head out at the window and screamed at the top of his voice, the train ran a mile and a half over the sleepers before they could attract the driver's attention, and even then it was merely by accident that he happened to look round!—and half-a-dozen others tell similar stories.

It seems incredible, but it is true, that for fifteen or twenty years this simple problem has been a matter of profound and ineffective discussion in England. Boards of engineers, committees of directors, and all sorts of scientific and learned bodies have held session after session, year after year, to devise some way of informing the engineer that the train is off the track, that a carriage is on fire, or that for some other good reason he ought to stop his train. But all in vain. To this day there is no possible means of communication between the carriage and the engineer. The simple expedient of running a cord under the roof the whole length of the train, which has been in use on every railroad in the United States for twenty years, is still pronounced utterly impracticable by the railroad authorities of England.

John Bull is certainly, in many things, the most obstinately stupid old fool that ever lived. Fifty years from now he will probably adopt the American style of railroad communication; but he won't do it until compelled, even if half his subjects roast meanwhile.

A REBEL EX-CONGRESSMAN IN SEARCH OF PEACE.—Ex-Senator FOOTE, who escaped from Richmond two or three months since, and was afterward expelled from the rebel Congress, has returned from Europe and is now under arrest in this city. We publish in another column a letter in which he states the circumstances and motives of his return. For what special reason he is in confinement here we do not know; but we presume that he has only to take the oath of allegiance to secure his release. The government has certainly nothing to fear from him, for he has fled from the authority of the rebels, and is thoroughly in favor of a restoration of the Union. He was always erratic in his actions and opinions, and is very likely now to prefer imprisonment rather than comply with conditions which our government has prescribed for the regulation of such cases. There is neither reason nor wisdom, however, in subjecting him to any severe or rigorous treatment.

THE AMENDMENT ABOLISHING SLAVERY.—We have received from a distinguished gentleman of this city the following extract of a letter received by him from a prominent citizen of North Carolina, formerly a slaveholder, and now a warm and zealous friend of the Union. It undoubtedly expresses the sentiment of the great body of the Union men of the Southern States:

"In the name of all that is sacred, prevail upon the leading men of the country to urge the States to the adoption of the amendment and thereby to place beyond cavil the abolition of slavery. If they have any love for their Southern brethren, let them ratify the act of Congress, and destroy the lingering hope that many yet have of the perpetuation of slavery, and which is now preventing thousands from striving with manly hands and hearts for an honest and comfortable living. I am thoroughly, overwhelmingly convinced by contact with the people, that they are ready and wishing for it. In fact, the act completed, will bring rejoicing; but so long as there is hope, uncertainty and inactivity will reign. The abolition of slavery, by the constitutional ratification of the States, will strengthen the Union cause in North Carolina and Virginia, the present battle-ground of the rebels. The gambler standing over the gaming-table watches the turn of the cards so long as he has one dollar invested; destroy the game, and he will cast about for a living by other means."

SECRETARY SEWARD.—We regret to learn that the accident to Mr. SEWARD was quite as serious as was at first reported, and that his condition is still somewhat critical. His arm was broken near the shoulder-joint, and his lower jaw was also broken. He suffers a great deal of pain from both, and although the symptoms, in the judgment of his surgeon, are favorable, the critical point has not yet passed. At this important juncture in the affairs of the nation, the country will regret the loss of his judicious and patriotic counsels.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sunday, April 9—8 P. M.

PEACE RUMORS.

If half that has been very positively asserted here during the last three days, about peace movements could be relied upon, there would be reason for believing that at least Virginia and North Carolina will be in the Union again within next month. There does not, however, appear to be any reason for supposing these wise personages are specially well informed. So far as North Carolina is concerned, it is not seen how any one in Washington can be knowing to the facts in the case, for no peace or reconstruction gentlemen or delegations have arrived here from that State.

Fortress Monroe letters mention the arrival there several days ago of two or three prominent persons from that State, but do not add that they are bent upon peace negotiations, though it is said they are anxious to see the President. In respect to the case of Virginia, there can be no doubt that an earnest movement toward reconstruction has been inaugurated in Richmond. The letter of Friday evening from your correspondent there, who is mentioned by several officers who have recently arrived, as having unusually accurate sources of information, furnishes abundant proof of this statement. Private letters of Friday noon give more details of the preliminary meetings of these citizens and members of the Legislature, and show that the movement has the active sympathy of many citizens whose names have not yet been mentioned in connection therewith. There is said, however, to be very strong repugnance on the part of very many persons to allowing Gov. SMITH and the runaway Legislature to have anything to do with the matter; and the President is reported to have said that he wished the Government to be of the people for the people. Another formal meeting of persons engaged in it was to be held Saturday morning, at which some definite action would probably be taken. Though JOHN MINOR BOTTS does not yet appear in the matter, it is understood that he has been consulted. Whether this movement proceeds upon the right basis, and will accomplish the end aimed at, the developments of a few days will go far to determine.

THE PRESIDENT RETURNED TO WASHINGTON.

The President left Richmond on Thursday evening and came to City Point to-day, arriving about 6 P. M. His return is understood to have been somewhat hastened by the accident to Mr. SEWARD, who is reported as very comfortable this evening.

Dispatches to the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Monday, April 9.

AN IMPORTANT ORDER.

An order has been issued from the Adjutant General's office, in Washington, requiring all records of discontinued commands to be immediately forwarded to that office, where the expense of express transportation will be paid, and officers who come in command of places captured from the enemy, will collect and forward any papers left behind by the rebels, which may be of public use or interest.

PRESIDENT JUAREZ.

Official and late news from Chihuahua and a telegram from San Francisco of yesterday's date, show that there is not the slightest foundation for the published report that President JUAREZ is coming to Washington. He is at the city of Chihuahua and does not contemplate visiting here, having enough to do at home.

REBEL DESERTIONS.

About 400 deserters were brought to the city this afternoon from City Point, guarded by a detachment of colored troops. They will take the oath o allegiance to-morrow and be sent wherever they may prefer.

THE RE-ASSEMBLING OF THE VIRGINIA LEGISLATURE.

The proposition of President LINCOLN, as stated in the Whig, to reassemble the Virginia Legislature at Richmond, for the purpose of authorizing a convention to take back the State into the bonds of the Union, interferes with the government claiming to represent that State, with PIERPONT as Governor, and its capital at Alexandria. The Legislature at the latter place, several months ago, having received from the Secretary of State a certified copy of the proposed Constitutional Amendment to abolish slavery, ratified the same by a nearly unanimous vote; and among other acts conferred a franchise for constructing a railroad from Washington to Fredericksburgh. The Pierpont Government contemplate an early removal to Richmond; but the event to which reference is above made, does not encourage the consummation of that design.

ANOTHER CITY RAILROAD IN OPERATION.—Very handsome and convenient cars were started yesterday for the first time on the Bleecker-street and Fulton Ferry Railroad. They run from the ferry up Fulton-street, William, Ann, Park-row, Centre, Leonard, Elm, Howard, Crosby, Bleecker, McDougal, Fourth, &c., returning, for most of the route, on the same streets. The Amity-street and Seventh-avenue line of stages is discontinued, so that the crowd in Fulton-street will not be greater by reason of the cars than heretofore with the stages. Although an entirely new line and running over a route where there have been no conveyances on Sunday, the cars were immediately and constantly crowded. It would be difficult to find a route of twenty blocks in the city where cars would not be well patronized in these flush times of fractional currency.

RECONSTRUCTION.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sunday, April 9.

The following extracts are from the Richmond Whig, of Friday, forwarded by your correspondent in the late rebel capital:

An informal meeting of the members of the Virginia Legislature remaining in the city was held in the Law Building, Franklin-street, this morning, for the consideration of the proposition of President Lincoln to reassemble the Legislature for the purpose of authorizing a convention to take Virginia back into the Union. The propositions of the President were laid before the meeting. A formal meeting was appointed to take place at 4 o'clock this afternoon, to which hour the meeting adjourned.

The Virginia Legislature adjourned on the 18th of March, to meet on the 29th of that month. They met on the 29th without a quorum. According to the constitution, they could under such circumstances only adjourn from day to day. This they did till Sunday last, the day of the evacuation, when they held a meeting in the evening and dispersed without resolution, some going off with the Governor, and some leaving on a canal-boat chartered for the purpose. According to law, the members now in the city are the only remaining legal representatives of the State of Virginia.

It is important to state that the Legislature of 1865 is authorized by the constitution to call a convention for the purpose of settling and adjusting the basis of representation. This question is settled, but a convention called for any purpose is omnipotent.

UNION MEN RETURNING.

A great many men whom the tyrannical rebel conscription has for three years driven from the face of day and forced to hide and skulk like felons, assured by the presence of the Union forces and the Star Spangled Banner, have ventured once more to show themselves among their fellows.

QUIET RESTORED.

For the first time during the war, the city may truly be said to be quiet and life and property safe. Not a noise more uncouth than the sound of military bands and army wagons disturbs the ear of day or night.

The garroters and burglars that infested the rebel capital have either knocked the dust of the city from their feet and followed the Confederate flag, or they have prudence enough to forego the practice of their nefarious arts.

The Petersburgh Railroad is unbroken in both track and bed, except in one or two places, all the distance from that city to Richmond. Trains are now running on the road, and the welcome whistle of the locomotive is heard again, the wake of the Union armies in things political, as well as things material. A strong force of laborers is to be at once got at work on the broken points of the Richmond, Fredericksburg, Aquia Creek and Potomac railroad and its completion, which will occur within the next few weeks, will put Richmond in rail communication with the Capitol of the United States again. The iron bands, broken by the ruthless hand of war, welded again, will once more reunite a divided people in bands too strong to be put asunder.

THE RIVER OBSTRUCTIONS.

The river obstructions are, we believe, being removed as expeditiously as possible, and forty-eight hours will not elapse, we opine, before we hear of steamers at Rocketts direct from New-York, Philadelphia, and Baltimore. The river at City Point is filled with a sutler's fleet, awaiting permits to enable them to bring their supplies to Richmond.

GEN. WEITZEL SERENADED.

The Armory Band, a Richmond organization, serenaded Maj.-Gen. GODFREY WEITZEL, on Wednesday night at his headquarters, the Jeff. Davis Mansion; also Gen. SHEPLEY, the Military Governor, Lieut.-Col. MANNING, the Provost-Marshal, and other officers.

American Finance Abroad.

We find the following paragraph in a recent number of the Frankfort (Germany) Journal. What it says of the service rendered to the American cause in Europe, especially in Germany, by Mr. MURPHY, our Consul at Frankfort, is well deserved. Mr. MURPHY has labored incessantly to offset the unremitting efforts of the rebel emissaries to injure the credit and depreciate the resources of our country, and to his exertions, in a very large degree, is due the popularity which our bonds have always enjoyed in Germany.

The following is the article.

AMERICAN FINANCE.

From the Frankfort Journal.

We perceive quite often in the NEW-YORK TIMES some important statistics touching financial affairs in the United States, and some of which are transferred to our paper. They are got up with great care and we commend their perusal to our readers. In addition to this, the Consul-General of the United States at Frankfort, now takes great pains to keep the German public advised of the course of events in the United States, and he has contributed very powerfully to render the American securities popular on the leading Bourses of Germany.

From the leading journals of New-York he has always procured the best information regarding the finances, and by well-selected articles has made it an easy task to turn public opinion on the right course.

Interesting to Hotel Keepers.

MARINE COURT.

James Robertson vs. Frederick B. Furnell.—The defendant, proprietor of the Dupont House in this city, was sued by the plaintiff for $400, the value of two trunks left with defendant's book-keeper for safe-keeping, alleged in the complaint as agent of defendant.

The defence set up that the defendant's book-keeper received the trunks on his own account, and not as agent of the defendant. Some of the testimony was conflicting.

Judgment for the defendant with $10 costs.

Wm. B. Smith and S. T. Freeman, Esqs., for plaintiff; and Wm. Wirt Hewett, Esq., for defendant.

THE FURMAN-STREET DISASTER—INVESTIGATION BEFORE THE CORONER. The investigation into the circumstances connected with the recent disaster in Furman-street, whereby five persons lost their lives, was commenced before the Coroner and jury on Saturday afternoon. JAMES S. SMITH, residing in Portland-avenue, near Dekalb, testified that he was on the roof of the burning building, with others, and while there was cautioned to step back; some twenty or thirty men were on the roof at the time; Mr. GEORGE HAVILAND cautioned them to leave; the firemen remained; they were playing on the fire; a minute or two after the warning the roof fell in; there was some one who directed the movements of the firemen, but he heard no orders given. WM. WESSELS, of No. 158 York-street, Jersey City, testified that he was upon the roof of the burning building, No. 93 Furman-street; told the Chief Engineer that it was useless to throw any water there, and was told to mind his own business; some one cautioned him that the roof was in danger of falling any minute; the caution was loud enough to be heard by all; the firemen were apparently doing no good there, as they were throwing the water into the street; after the caution, the citizens mostly left; was just in the rear when the roof went in; labored under the impression that the Chief-Engineer went down with the rest. T. D. HERRMAN, of No. 90 Hicks-street, heard the Chief give an order, and supposed it to be an order to vacate the roof, some ten or fifteen minutes before the accident. ROBERT BARR, Assistant-Engineer, testified that he was present at the fire, but heard no order given for the people to get off the roof. Had been at the fire about half an hour when the roof fell in, and assisted several men out of the ruins. The question of the security of these buildings had never been raised among firemen to his knowledge. Had no conversation with the Chief-Engineer that night, and did not consider that there was any danger. Did not know that the Chief was there at the time the roof fell in. Did not think it safe to have a covering of earth on those buildings. GEORGE COLGAN, of No. 7 Engine, testified that the Chief-Engineer ordered the men on the roof to cease playing, as they were throwing the water on those below. As the order was not obeyed, he went on the roof himself. The fire had been burning about half an hour at this time. In a few minutes thereafter the Chief gave the order to stop playing, the roof fell in. The inquisition will be resumed this afternoon at 1 o'clock.

THE MAGAZINES FOR APRIL.

—Harper's New Monthly Magazine (New-York: HARPER & BROTHERS) presents its usual variety of instructive and entertaining matter. Among the best articles are: "The Petroleum Regions of America," by JOHN S. SCHOOLEY; Mr. ABBOTT'S "Stirring Adventures Beyond the Mississippi," devoted to an account of Gen. BANKS' ill-fated Red River Expedition, and "Recollections of Gen. SHERMAN," by W. F. SHANKS. "Armadale" and "Our Mutual Friend" will be welcomed by all lovers of romance. The current numbers of these stories show no falling off in their attraction. DICKENS, indeed, seems to be taking more pains as the work proceeds. The scene of the resuscitation of a half-drowned man in the present installment, is written with much of his old power. "Wall-street in War Time" will interest all who wish to understand the secret of the rapid fortunes that everyone hears of as matters of daily occurrence. "Where the Wateres Was" is a pleasant sketch of a cruise in South American waters, with some capital illustrations.

—The Atlantic Monthly, (Boston: TICKNOR & FIELDS,) like its colemporary Harper's, has "struck ile" in its very first article. "The Adventures of a Lone Woman" recounts the pilgrimage of a lady (Mrs. JANE G. AUSTIN) to the new El Dorado, and how she accomplished the feat alone, at the expense of some discomfort, but no serious suffering. Mr. MITCHELL'S story, "Dr. John's," proceeds with additional spirit, and promises to form a perfect photograph of certain leading phases of New-England life, sketched by an observer of singular acuteness, who combines the natural shrewdness of his native State with the refinement of the cultivated scholar. "Grit," by E. P. WHIPPLE, is a clever essay on that useful quality illustrated by the characters of CALHOUN, WEBSTER, and Gen. GRANT. Among the poetry Prof. LOWELL'S new "Bigelow Papes" will be sure to attract attention. It is "A Letter from Hosea to the Editor of the Atlantic," and is written in a subdued and saddened tone symptomatic of that state of mind when the sacrifices and losses of the conflict are more dwelt upon than the glories of victory. "Our First Citizen," by Dr. O. W. HOLMES, is a fine monody on EDWARD EVERETT. Mr. and Mrs. HALL'S "Memories of Theodore Hook and his Friends" preserves some interesting literary anecdote.

—The United States Service Magazine, (New-York: C. B. RICHARDSON,) contains several able papers on various branches of military and naval science, as well as narratives of personal adventure and service in the war of the rebellion. "Women on the War" is founded on the curious fact stated by the author, that since he began to make inquiries relative to women soldiers in the Federal army, he has been amazed at finding the number so much greater than he had anticipated. The "Official Intelligence" is, as usual, ample and authentic, and it may safely be asserted, that no officer, of either branch of the service, can be properly "posted up" in professional knowledge, unless he is a subscriber to this excellent magazine.

—Our Young Folks, (Boston: TICKNOR & FIELDS,) has so well employed its brief career, that the fourth number appears already to wear the face of an old friend. The same staff of experienced writers still caters for youthful readers in its pages. Mrs. Stowe, Gail Hamilton, Carleton, the author of "Ten Acres Enough," Capt. Mayne Reid, &c., are all busy in making instruction delightful and the acquisition of knowledge a process as pleasant as a game of play. The illustrations of Our Young Folks are abundant and well executed, and will cause the series for the year to form a most attractive volume.

—The Eclectic Magazine of Foreign Literature, (New-York: W. H. BIDWELL,) is richly freighted as usual, with the choicest cullings from the European press. A fine mezzotint engraving of the open and intelligent countenance of Prof. GOLDWIN SMITH, will make most readers for the first time acquainted with the personal appearance of this enlightened defender of their country, whose arguments have powerfully effected the state of public opinion in Europe. With the great resources at the command of the editor it would indeed be singular if, with his talent and experience, he failed to produce in The Eclectic one of our best and most popular periodicals.

—The Catholic World, a Monthly Magazine of General Literature and Science, (New-York: S. KEHOE.) Under high archiepiscopal sanction appears the first number of this new magazine, intended to form an intellectual organ suited to the tastes and wants of our Catholic citizens. Mr. JOHN R. G. HASSARD (the biographer of Archbishop HUGHES) is editor, and will have the assistance of the best American and foreign talent. The external appearance of the Catholic World equals that of other first-class magazines. Among the articles, which are numerous and well selected, we notice "Constance Sheraud, an Autobiography of the Sixteenth Century," by Lady GEORGIANA FULLERTON; and "The Progress of the Church in the United States," from the French of E. RAMEUR, comprising some facts and figures worthy the attention of our statesmen.

—The National Quarterly Review, (New-York: E. J. SEARS,) now in its tenth volume, testifies to the energy and enterprise of the editor in relieving New-York from the opprobrium of being unable to support a purely literary, high-class quarterly journal. The number before us grapples successfully with many topics of prominent interest, as "Our Gas Monopolies," "History, Uses and Abuses of Petroleum." Other articles illustrate Italian literature, "Ariostes" and "Machiavelli," recent discoveries in Astronomy, &c. The literary notices are sharp and discriminating.

—Hours at Home—A new monthly Magazine.—A new candidate for popular favor will be introduced to the public this week by Messrs. CHARLES SCRIBNER & Co., under the name of "Hours at Home." This magazine is designed to be distinctly religious in its character, and the names of some of the contributors, which are given in another column, promise well for the high character of the undertaking. The popularity of magazines of this class in England gives every reason to believe that this new project will be a decided success.

Amusements.

The artists of Mr. MARETZEK'S troupe returned to the city yesterday, and will remain a day or two here prior to proceeding to Chicago, where they are engaged by Mr. GRAU for the opening of Mr. CROSBY'S new opera house. So far as absolute engagements are concerned, our season is already at an end. The artists, however, have arranged a complimentary benefit for their late conductor, or, to speak more correctly, they have determined on giving him two benefits—one in Brooklyn, and the other here. The first comes off to-night, when "I Puritani" will be performed for the first and only time in Montague-street. The second takes place at the Academy of Music to-morrow (Tuesday) evening, when we are to have "Il Poliuto," and an act from "La Forza del Destino." If Mr. MARETZEK were not so well known we would ask the consideration of the public for both these entertainments. As it is we are content to express the hope that a worthy and hard-working man may find that his efforts are not all in vain.

The announcements at the various places of amusement to night are as follows: At Wallack's Theatre, the "Prima Donna" and "Simpson & Co.;" at the Winter Garden, "Cartouche;" at Niblo's Garden, (EDWIN FORREST,) "King Lear," and at the Broadway, "Dot." Mr. BARNUM announces a week of variety, when three pieces will be given. The pantomime at the Hippotheatron continues to draw prodigiously.

The irresistible undercurrent of favor which runs toward Mr. and Mrs. CHARLES KEAN, in the positive absence of all prefatory puffing, is one of the most encouraging signs of the times. It proves evidence of a desire to study art, honestly and truly, by its best representatives. That Mr. and Mrs. CHAS. KEAN belong to this category, there can be no doubt; and although two influential daily papers, it is understood, intend to attack them, tooth and nail, it is impossible that their wordy euphonisms can injure a reputation built so honestly as is theirs. We are glad that they come just as they do, without superfluous managerial bombast. To have labored—as they have labored—for years and years, and not to be known, would be bad indeed. We find now that with a complete indifference on the part of the press, these artists have stirred the intellectual community to its depths. The demands for seats at the Broadway Theatre have been so great that the manager, for the protection of the public, has resolved on an auction sale, which will take place in the theatre to-day at 10 o'clock. We are by no means sure that this mode of arranging matters does protect the public. On the contrary, we think that it creates an unhealthy excitement which must in the end be prejudicial. But the necessity in this instance shows that two great artists have been fondly remembered by a community which is not always faithful to its early loves.

MR. THEODORE THOMAS gave his fifth and last Symphonie Soirée on Saturday evening, at Irving Hall. The programme, although a little heavy in the first part, was excellent. We are compelled to make the reservation, and are glad to do so, inasmuch as it gives us an opportunity of pointing out the particular merit of Mr. THOMAS' entertainments. He presents new works—or when this is not possible—works that are seldom heard, and mirabile dictu, seldom accepted. The intention is always good. To grow in art one must know not only what has been done, but what is doing. So, during the season now concluded, Mr. THOMAS has given us many works which we praised, and a few which we have squarely pitched into. It is probable that he remembers the latter only, but if it be so he is greatly mistaken. Whatever may be the success of a new work, whether it fall at once or drop into the noisy abyss of dilletantism, the credit is always his of having submitted it to the public judgment. The task at best is an unpleasant one, commercially considered it is perhaps unprofitable to play any effusion which may be damned. It were easier to limit one's operations to the respectable symphonies of masters who have exceeded the possibility of inclement criticism; but there would be no progress if this were done. Mr. THOMAS is the interpreter of what is new, and in this light he occupies courageously and well, a position of interest and importance to the art world.

The dull part of the programme lay in the "passacagila" of BACH, the symphony for violin and viola of MOZART, and the overture of the "Bride of Messina," by our veritable friend SCHUMANN. The first is a fair representation of the treadmill. A culprit may travel on it for a day without advancing a step; it simply goes round in the most obvious style; takes up threads with painful precision, and is generally respectable and dull—like a superannuated churchwarden. To the native weight of the composition Herr ESSER has added the superior dullness of his instrumentation. We have had this gentleman before in the "Toccata," and—in view of the BACH revival which irritates some minds at this moment—there seems a prospect of having him again. His idea of instrumentation appears to be a wheezey mingling of all the instruments with an occasional hiccough on the double-bassoes. The "passacagila" with its jaw-breaking return to one idea, certainly gains nothing from Herr ESSER'S colorless and insipid treatment. The symphony for violin and viola, with accompaniment of orchestra, by MOZART, is a work generally avoided in Europe. It is nevertheless an interesting illustration of how extremes may be made to meet; of how two instruments, only distantly related, may be made to talk intelligibly. The work contains three movements—the andante being, as it usually is with MOZART, the most interesting. On the whole, one would prefer death to a repetition of this production. The wearisome scale passages on the little fiddle, repeated ad nauseam on the bigger one, are simply maddening. Moreover, it is necessary to say that Mr. MATZKA—admirable musician as he is—cannot hold the viola with sufficient firmness for such a work. The lack of equality in his passages was frequently painful. Mr. THEODORE THOMAS played the violin part with clearness and spirit. He was not even discouraged by the orchestra, which, instead of accompanying, went round, cut off and surprised the performers on every possible opportunity. It was impossible to dodge it. It was not in sight, it was round the corner, and when least expected, down it came. In the course of time, the symphony came to an end. SCHUMANN'S overture to the "Bride of Messina" possesses, at least, one merit. It is clearly and firmly made. As a suggestive prelude to a poet's work, however, it is meaningless. It might with perfect propriety be called the "Bridge of Messina." Like all the later works of the composer, it lacks repose.

The second part of the programme commenced and ended with BEETHOVEN'S glorious Seventh Symphony, which was played superbly. It is only right to add that the preceding works (with the exception of the Mozart symphony) were given in the clearest manner, and in a way to reflect the highest credit on Mr. THOMAS.

There was a change in the vocal department. Mr. AUGUST KREISSMANN, who was to have sung a dozen or two of songs by SCHUMANN and FRANZ, was providentially prevented doing so by sickness. In Mr. KREISSMANN'S absence, Mrs. J. H. BARCLAY volunteered, and acquitted herself with rare ability. This lady possesses a charming voice. Her method is still a little too close, but her improvement has been so rapid that it is very easy to see she will, at no distant day, be the most acceptable concert vocalist in New-York.

Mr. BARNUM announces a grand national poultry, pigeon and rabbit show—open to all competition—to commence on Monday, April 24. A variety of prizes are to be distributed.

Mr. HELLER'S new programme is one of the best he has ever offered to the public. The Spirit-Sack certainly exceeds anything ever done in the so called spiritual way. It is infinitely more extraordinary than the celebrated DAVENPORT rope-tying trick. They who would see how a public may be humbugged should decidedly witness the sack feat. We may add here that Mr. HELLER'S entire entertainment is unexceptionally good.

M'lle. STELLA BONHEUR'S complimentary concert will take place at Irving Hall on Saturday evening next. The lady—of whose future the best critics entertain the brightest expectation—will be assisted by Mr. S. B. MILLS, Mr. EBEN, Signor IPPOLITO, Mr. SCHREIBER, Mr. PERRINO and SCHRENIAR, as accompanyist.

The Melo-Chorean ball takes place at Irving Hall on Monday evening next, the 17th, (Easter Monday.) We are requested to state, that it is impossible to issue extra tickets to members—except for artists—the demand having already far exceeded the expectations of the committee.

Miss IONE BURKE, a lady both charming and talented, will take her benefit at Wallack's Theatre on Wednesday next. BUCKSTONE'S comedy of "Leap Year" will be revived for the occasion. Miss BURKE is a young and rising artist, and the timely recognition of her friends—as it may here be displayed—will cheer her on the stormy path of art.

Mr. LEONARD GROVER announces a season of German opera, commencing at the Academy of Music, on Easter Monday, April 17. The programme will be issued on Wednesday next.

Mrs. J. H. BARCLAY'S concert, last week, was in every way an agreeable entertainment. The lady was assisted by first-class artists.

Mr. DEMPSTER, the well-known balladist, is once more here. He will give an entertainment at Irving Hall on Thursday evening next.

There will be a grand dramatic matinée at the Academy of Music on Wednesday next. Volunteers from all the city theatres will appear. The proceeds are to supply substitutes for the mechanics of two or three theatres who have been drafted.

Mlle. DE KATOW and Mr. JAMES M. WEHLI, with other artists, will give a grand concert at Irving Hall on Wednesday next.

FORT SUMTER.

Departure of the Arago—The Old Flag on Board.

At noon on Saturday, the government transport Arago sailed from the foot of Beach-street, bound for Fort Sumter, the object of her mission being to convey a large party of ladies and gentlemen to witness the restoration of the old flag to the ramparts of the fort.

By 10 o'clock A. M. those invited commenced to arrive. Gen. ROBERT ANDERSON, with his wife, son and three daughters, was early on board. Gen. and Miss DIX soon followed, and in a short time HENRY WARD BEECHER, GEO. THOMPSON, LLOYD GARRISON, THEODORE TILTON, Senator WILSON and many other notables, had congregated on the wharf. At 11 o'clock a gaily decorated post-office van was driven down to the pier, containing the original Fort Sumter mail-bag, addressed "Major ANDERSON, Fort Sumter, April 14, 1865," and also the old Fort Sumter flag, inclosed in a box and placed in charge of Sergt. HART, the man who lowered the flag when the fort was evacuated, and who is to raise it on a given signal on Friday next. For the last four years the flag has been in the vaults of the Bank of Commerce.

Nearly two hundred invitations were issued. Sixty-one passengers sailed from this port, and the remainder, including the members of the Cabinet, are expected to come on board at Fortress Monroe. The anchor was weighed punctually at noon, a bright sun and unclouded sky giving promise of a pleasant voyage.

DEPARTMENT OF THE EAST.

Trial of Mr. B. S. Osbon by Court-Martial.

Several months since, Mr. OSBON, in his capacity of naval reporter, furnished sundry journals with the details of an expedition about to be made, with the understanding that the matter was not to be used until he should notify the editors of its propriety. The newspapers, however, published the matter, and it was extensively copied, to the alleged injury of the expedition. The name of Mr. OSBON was given to the authorities, and he was arrested and taken to the Old Capitol Prison at Washington, where he has since been detained. Last week, by order of the government, he was sent to this city and placed in charge of Gen. DIX. In pursuance of orders from the War Department, a court-martial was detailed by the Commandant of the Department of the East, consisting of the following officers:

Brig.-Gen. Fitz-Henry Warren, U. S. V., President; Brig.-Gen. W. H. Morris, U. S. V.; Col. M. S. Howe, Third U. S. Cavalry; Col. H. Day, U. S. A.; Brev. Lieut.-Col. R. F. O'Bierne, Captain Fourteenth U. S. Infantry; Major G. W. Wallace, Sixth U. S. Infantry. Of this court Gen. Warren is President and Major John A. Bolles, A. D. C., is Judge-Advocate.

At the first session of the court, Mr. OSBON, who is confined at Ludlow-street jail, was produced by Capt. HUGHES, and attended by his counsel, Judge EMMOTT. The Judge-Advocate announced that Mr. OSBON was charged with a violation of the 57th article of war, in giving information to the enemy, and then read the charge and specifications, which include a long extract from the Philadelphia Press newspaper, to him, and asked if he was ready to plead.

After consultation with his counsel, Mr. OSBON stated that he was not prepared to put in a plea, but that he would be ready by Monday, (to-day,) in consequence of which the court adjourned.

THE CASE OF DR. BICKLEY.

Judge BETTS has not yet promulgated his opinion in the case of BICKLEY, the President of the K. G. C. Pending the proceedings Mr. BICKLEY was removed from Fort Lafayette to Fort Warren, and the question of jurisdiction alone was argued before the Court. The counsel stated that if the Judge should decide that Fort Warren can be reached only by a writ from Judge Loring, of Massachusetts, the friends of Dr. BICKLEY would be obliged to commence proceedings in Boston. Dr. B. can then be moved to Fort Delaware and Judge LORING will have to make another decision against him. In this way the law of Congress becomes virtually a nullity and its provisions a farce. Judge BETTS can reach Gen. DIX, and Gen. DIX controls every fort within the Department of the East. It is stated that Dr. BICKLEY would prefer a trial to a release. His constitution is thoroughly prostrated, and he asks as a matter of health that he may be allowed to come out on bail, as was granted in the case of a prominent office-holder last year. Gen. DIX has as yet received no intimation from Judge BETTS as to his decision.

Mr. JOHN H. BRADY, the last of the State prisoners at Fort Lafayette, was released on Saturday. It was deemed that his long imprisonment was punishment sufficient for the offence with which he was charged.

Ten wells are now going down on the company's property, in the richest portion of the famous Sugar Creek Valley. There is room for 500 more.

The trustees will refrain from lengthy advertisement of the prospects of the SUGAR CREEK PETROLEUM COMPANY, and content themselves with pointing to the features which distinguish it from many enterprises of the day. THE STOCK IS NOT WATERED. The projectors depend for their profits solely on a RISE IN ITS MARKET PRICE.

But a few thousand shares will be sold, and these on the only honest basis, viz., AT THEIR PAR VALUE.

The company's property is worth more than the entire capital stock. The latter is so small, indeed, that even a ten-barrel well will pay regular monthly dividends. The Sugar Creek Wells are but half as expensive, and the oil is twice as valuable as the wells and oil either of Oil Creek or Cherry Run. Prospectuses and Maps can be obtained, and subscriptions effected, by application to CHARLES G. JUDSON, No. 84 Chambers-st; CHARLES GOULD, No. 58 Wall-st.; J. L. EVERITT, Broadway Bank, or to either of the trustees.

SUBSCRIPTION BOOKS, FOR THE SALE OF THE STOCK RESERVED AS WORKING CAPITAL, ARE OPEN, FOR A LIMITED PERIOD, AT THE OFFICE OF E. C. STEDMAN & CO., Bankers and Brokers, 57 Exchange-place, New-York.

CONSUMERS' BENEFIT COAL COMPANY.
SHARES, $10.

Each share entitles the holder to one ton of coal per year, at the cost of mining, transportation and delivery, which is now about $8 per ton; also to a share of the profits on the sale of coal produced beyond the quantity supplied to shareholders.

Those who buy for investment can have the coal they will be entitled to sold for their benefit, and receive the proceeds over the cost in cash.

Investment in this stock is not a risk, for anthracite coal lands are rapidly rising in value.

The shares to be sold are limited, and are nearly all subscribed for. Immediate application is necessary to secure any. Office, No. 71 Broadway, Room No. 50.

iron heel of despotism to permit the amnesty of the prominent leaders of the rebellion. I am not at liberty to-day to mention the names of the most prominent of these men; but were I to do so, many of your readers would recognize them as of the most sterling character.

In addition to this, there is another element, not so thoroughly Union, but ready to stop and talk about the best terms of reconstruction. When the President was here on Tuesday a committee waited on him, headed by Judge CAMPBELL, of Alabama, and late Assistant Secretary of War, also late Peace Commissioner, and asked him what were the best terms he could offer to Virginia—what plan of action must the people adopt to secure reconstruction on the most favorable terms? The President wrote on a slip of paper, without address or signature: That the Emancipation Proclamation must stand; that in all other matters the people would be treated with liberality; that passports might possibly be granted to the Governor, members of the Legislature, or any other public men to come to Richmond and decide the destiny of Virginia.

This little document was the basis of a private conference held this afternoon at the office of the Whig, at which were assembled Judge CAMPBELL, Gen. J. R. ANDERSON of the Tredegar Iron Works, and the following members of the State and city governments: Senators MARSHALL of Fauquier, GARRISON of Accomac, and Messrs. ENGLISH, HALL, DUKE and SCOT, of the House of delegates; JOSEPH MAYO, Mayor of the city, WILLIAM THOMAS, city auditor, and Messrs WALKER, DUKE, SAUNDERS and SCOTT, of the city council. There were also several prominent Union citizens present. Mr. ANDERSON was called to the chair, and Judge CAMPBELL stated what he had obtained from the President. The meeting was intended to be private, and I have not been able to learn fully what transpired, but I believe it is proposed to send four Commissioners to Gen. LEE with the terms proposed by Mr. LINCOLN, and see if he can be induced to cease hostilities while the Legislature is convened to deliberate and decide the fate of the State, and that the village of Charlottesville be made neutral ground, there to convene the Legislature and deliberate.

This project contains several impracticable features, and does not express the views of the thoroughly loyal people here, who declare that "BILLY" SMITH, the present Governor, is a far worse rebel than JEFF. DAVIS himself, and that he must be repudiated, and the Legislature with him, for both were elected, not by the people, but by a terrible despotism under which no freedom of choice could be exercised. But even such signs are vastly encouraging, though the completeness of our great victory should never be marred by any compromise, when there is an absolute majority of Union men here in the city of Richmond to day.

There will be further developments of deep interest in a few days, which I trust I may have the pleasure of chronicling.

The city is thronged with distinguished visitors. Yesterday two steamers arrived with Mrs. LINCOLN, Mrs. GRANT, Senator SUMNER, Senator HARLAN, and other well-known people. To-day there arrived Vice-President JOHNSON, PARSON KING and others. The city is really crowded. All the sutlers and traders at City Point have rushed up here, and trade will soon be lively.

The recruiting of negro troops goes on with great rapidity, two or three hundred per day being enlisted. A branch of Gen. CASEY's Examining Board is already established, by Col. FREDERICKS and Maj. TAGGART, of the War Department. The truth about the rebel enlistment of negroes here appears to be that about two hundred only were ever sworn into service. No inducements could tempt the black man to enter the rebel army.

The great news to-day that SHERIDAN has captured 12,000 more prisoners, including Gens. EWELL, KERSHAW, and FITZHUGH LEE, thrills every heart with enthusiasm, and there is the greatest good feeling everywhere to-night.

As I close my letter, bands are playing in the Capitol Square, the moon shines brilliantly overhead, and the scene seems not at all one of war.

L. L. CROUNSE.

RICHMOND, Va., Friday, April 7.

The State Legislature of Virginia, about three weeks since, debated in secret session the subject of a return to the Union, and the majority of the members present, expressed the determination that she would return if their State Rights and local governments were preserved, and that the people would return back to the Union, if they were reassured on the subject of confiscation and the protection of their property.

The institution of Slavery was not only not made a sine qua non, but it was determined that it should be abandoned. It is asserted by Southern residents of influence that if Virginia be allowed to return to her allegiance under such a liberal policy as this, the other seceding States will at once follow her example. It is also asserted that the appointment of JOHN MINOR BOTTS to be Governor of the State would facilitate the execution of the programme. This may be taken for what it is worth.

In addition to the 500 guns of all calibre abandoned by the rebels when they evacuated Richmond, we have captured 10,000 stand of small arms in the city, with an immense quantity of ordnance stores and military equipments of all kinds; a large quantity of sulphur, nitre, and unfinished work has also been captured in the Government laboratories.

Lieut.-Col. HOWARD, Chief Quartermaster of the army of the James, has established his headquarters at the corner of Tenth and Franklin-streets, in a large building, formerly used as a female institute. The amount of work which the occupation of Richmond by our troops necessitated is enormous, and it is highly satisfactory to state that the progress which has been made reflects the highest credit upon the energy and untiring exertion of Lieut.-Col. MANNING and Lieut. MERRILL, A. Q. M. of the army of the James. A very large amount of property has been collected and stored under safe keeping. A search has been made of various tobacco houses and their contents, also of all the iron foundries, flour, paper and cotton mills. A forage depot has been established to supply the vast number of trains with forage. Seven steamboats, which were found on the James in good working order, are now in active use by the Quartermaster's department. Strong guards have been placed over the railroads running out of the city, subject to the order of the Military Superintendent of the railroad.

Preparations are in progress for again supplying the city with gas and water—two luxuries of which Richmond stands much in need. It is expected that the city will be again lighted on Sunday night. A building has been selected and is being fitted for the subsistence and the shelter of the contrabands, who are thus found useful labor and comfortable quarters. The cleanliness of the streets is also being attended to, and other sanitary and salutary regulations, indispensable in a large and crowded city. All these most important and useful works are being executed under the orders of Maj.-Gen. SHEPLEY, and the superintendence of Lieut.-Col. HOWARD.

Large quantities of cordwood are in the immediate vicinity of Richmond, and as fast as circumstances will permit, it will be brought into the city. The population here have been for months almost without fuel. Military operations have interfered with the transportation of everything essential to domestic use. The Central Railroad to Fredericksburgh, and the York Railroad, are uninjured for fifteen miles out of Richmond.

There are, to-day, confined in the Libby Prison, fifteen hundred Confederate prisoners; two hundred and eighty-two of this number are prisoners of war, who had straggled from the main army on Monday last. The balance are deserters from the Confederate army. With but a very small exception, the whole number have expressed the wish to take the oath of allegiance to the United States Government, and the reason which the few who hesitated gave, was that their families were south of Richmond, and they wished to have an opportunity of visiting them.

Mrs. President LINCOLN, accompanied by Senator SUMNER, paid a visit to the Libby, yesterday, and took great interest in examining the rebel records, which have most fortunately been found there. Vice-President JOHNSON also visited the prison to-day. Capt. M. T. BITTOP, Thirteenth New-Hampshire, is Commandant, and Capt. W. APPLEBY, Eighty-first New-York, is stationed there as assistant.

I trust I shall not be open to the charge of egotism in alluding to the fact that just two months since this very day, after nine months' confinement in rebel prisons, I left the Libby almost too weak to walk to the Rocketts, with 1200 other emaciated prisoners, who had just been exchanged. I return to it to-day and find that the cells which were then occupied by Union officers, starved there for the crime of loyalty to their country, were now occupied by some of the wretches who lost no opportunity of increasing the misery of all who had the misfortune to be in any way subject to them. I find, moreover, that the prisoners now confined there have as much tea, coffee, sugar, and good hard tack and meat as is good for them daily, and I cannot forget the fact that a few ounces of stale corn bread, a pint of rice soup and occasionally a small piece of meat, was our daily ration. It is not surprising that the men want to take the oath of allegiance. The present commandants of Castle Thunder are Capt. L. V. MADDRAN, Eighty-first New-York, and Lieut. W. BRAYLEY, Eighty-first New-York, and they have under their charge about 120 deserters from the United States army, who have been picked up in Richmond. It is computed that there are about 300 more of these wretches secreted in Richmond, and from the measures adopted they will in all probability very soon join their comrades in the castle.

The Fifty-eighth Pennsylvania, Third Brigade of Gen. DENNIS' division of the Twenty-fourth Army Corps, were paid by Maj. B. B. HAND, Paymaster United States, on Tuesday morning, and were the first paid regiment that entered Richmond.

Naval Intelligence.

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMER VICKSBURGH.

The U. S. steamer Vicksburgh arrived at this port to-day from Hampton Roads, and proceeded to the navy-yard. She has been nearly eighteen months in commission, was actively engaged in blockade duty off Wilmington, N. C., and in cruising for runners and privateers, also occupying a prominent part in the engagements, resulting in the capture of Wilmington. Her last duty was up the Pamunkey River, Va., in coöperation with the forces of Gen. SHERIDAN to prevent the erection of batteries on the bluffs. She is said to be one of the most beautiful vessels in the service, and carries the formidable battery of one 100-pounder, four 30-pounders, one 20-pounder, all rifles, and one 12-pound howitzer.

The Vicksburgh is commanded by Acting Master FRANK G. OSBORN, who entered the naval service on breaking out of the rebellion, and has participated in the various engagements under Vice-Admiral FARRAGUT.

The following is a list of her officers: Acting Master, Commander FRANK G. OSBORN; Acting Ensign and Sailing Master, G. V. Demorest; Acting Ensign and Ex-Officer, Wm. H. Otis; Acting Assistant Paymaster, S. Henry Bulkley; [Acting Surgeon, Thos. W. Bennett; Second Assistant Engineer in charge, Jacob L. Bright; Second Assistant Engineer, Henry Harberson; Third Assistant Engineer, A. L. Nagle; Third Assistant Engineer, Levi Colt.

Arrival of Rebel Prisoners.

The steamship Matanzas, Capt. LIEBEGANG, arrived yesterday morning, from City Point, bringing 900 rebel prisoners, part of those captured by Gen. SHERMAN, at Bentonville, Goldsboro and Columbia. They are in charge of Capt. N. W. PERKINS, Thirteenth Connecticut Battalion, with a squad of 100 U. S. Veterans. Among the prisoners are the following:

Rebel Field and Staff Officers.—Col. Alfred Rhett, commanding a brigade, of Fort Sumter notoriety; Capt. F. D. Blake, First Regiment South-Carolina Artillery; Capt. Mitchell King, First Regiment South Carolina Infantry; Capt. L. W. Perrin, First Regiment South Carolina Infantry; Lieut. John Hartiestin, First Regiment South-Carolina Artillery; Lieut. Easterling, Twenty-fourth South Carolina Infantry; Second Lieut. G. R. Pope, A. C. S.; Lieut. John A. Francis, A. C. S.; W. L. De Pass, South Carolina Battery; Capt. V. E. Manged, Georgia Cadets; Lieut. W. T. Rewth, A. C. S.; Alfred H. Dunkin, War Tax Collector, Confederate States; First Lieut. Luly Harper, Sixty-sixth North Carolina troops; First Lieut. B. F. Sparrow, Sixty-seventh Regiment North Carolina troops; Lieut. T. W. Carr, Sixty-seventh Regiment North Carolina troops.

Purser J. C. CARO, of the Matanzas, to whom we are indebted for favors, reports that Admiral PORTER arrived at City Point on the flagship Malvern on the evening of the 6th inst., from Richmond. The River Queen, (President LINCOLN's boat,) was at City Point when the Matanzas left.

The Matanzas also brings the following passengers: Lieut. JOHN COLLIGNEY, Twenty-eighth Iowa; Lieut. A. C. CUNNINGHAM, Third Massachusetts Light Artillery; Capt. HOYT, Twenty-eighth Iowa.

Investitution of the Archbishop of New-York with the Pallum.

This very interesting ceremony of the Catholic Church took place yesterday in St. Patrick's Cathedral, the investor being the Right Rev. the Bishop (LAUGHLIN,) of Brooklyn. The pallum is the badge of authority of an Archbishop of the Catholic Church, and its investiture is as old as the church itself. There is a record in existence to the effect that the pallum of St. Peter was transferred to his successor Linus, and that of St. Mark to his successor in Alexandria, which at the present day Pallas, similar to those of the Roman Church, are used by the Greeks, and other Eastern Christians. On the 27th January, (the feast of St. Agnes,) in each year two lambs are taken and placed in the custody of religieux until shearing time. From the wool then taken the pallum is made. It is then taken to the tomb of St. Peter and there blessed by the Holy Father himself, and is thus said to be taken from the body of St. Peter. It is an emblem of communion between the head of the church and his successors. Until received by the Archbishop he cannot exercise the functions of his office, but in the case of Archbishop McCLOSKY, a special dispensation to exercise said functions was given from Rome.

Yesterday, at the usual hour, a solemn high mass was sung, with Rev. Father STARRS as celebrant, and Fathers MCGUIRK and MCSWEENEY deacon and sub-deacon, and Father MCLEAN master of ceremonies. Previous to the Post Communion, Bishop LOUGHLIN preached an excellent sermon on the divine mission of the Apostles and their successors, from Ephesians xxiv. He then explained the use of the pallum and the manner in which it was made, as already described, and concluded by reading the prayer of the Pope upon its being blessed.

When the sermon was concluded the Bishop clothed himself in his full Episcopal habit; the Archbishop did the same, and after uttering some prayers the former sat on a throne in front of the altar, while the Archbishop, kneeling at his feet, repeated the oath of fidelity to his charge and to the church. This done, the pallum was taken from a cushion by the Bishop, who then placed it round the Archbishop's neck. The Bishop then descended, and the Archbishop, taking his place, concluded the service with the Apostolic benediction.

On Easter Sunday the Papal benediction will be pronounced by the Archbishop, by special authority from the Pope.

Abolition of Slavery.

CELEBRATION BY OUR COLORED CITIZENS.

A grand celebration will be held in this city on the 18th of April, in commemoration of the abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia, April 16, 1862, and the subsequent triumphs of freedom. The main features of the celebration will be a prayer-meeting at Zion Church, a military and civic procession, and a meeting at Cooper Institute.

The procession will be composed of several military and civic organizations, under the direction of Grand Marshal PAUL DRAYTON. The music will be furnished by the celebrated Brigade Band of Camp William Penn.

The entertainment at Cooper Institute will consist of instrumental and vocal music and ovations. Among the distinguished speakers invited are Maj.-Gen. Butler, Col. Wagner, Maj. Martin, R. Delaney, Rev. Henry Highland Garnet and others.

It is expected that this celebration will be attended by one of the largest and most respectable gatherings of colored people ever witnessed in this country. The exercises promise to prove highly interesting.

OUR VICTORIES.

Address to the President—Resolutions.

The committee appointed on the 3d inst. to make arrangements for the celebration of our recent victories, held a meeting at the Custom-house, on Saturday. Collector DRAPER presided, and SAMUEL SLOAN, Esq., acted as Secretary. A large number of prominent citizens were present and took part in the proceedings. The committee appointed to prepare an address to the President, and appropriate resolutions, reported the following, which were unanimously adopted:

ADDRESS TO THE PRESIDENT.

The Citizens of New-York to Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States:

With devout thankfulness to Almighty God for the gracious protection he has vouchsafed to us as a nation during the perils and conflicts of civil war, we desire to acknowledge his merciful goodness and to join in reverence for His Holy name:

In the confident belief that the measure will be in accordance with the principles which have guided your councils in the execution of the great trust committed to your hands, we respectfully request that a day, to be designated in your own good time, may be set apart when the whole people may be invited to assemble and meet together to offer praises and thanks for the brilliant successes which under Divine Providence have been secured to us by the persistent energy, sagacity and fidelity of the government, and by the skill, intrepidity and self-sacrificing devotion of the army and navy engaged in maintaining the honor and preserving the life of the nation, for the countless blessings we enjoy under the benign influence of free institutions, and for the cheering prospects of opening before us once more a united, prosperous and happy country.

And we remain your friends and fellow citizens.

NEW-YORK, April 8, 1865.

RESOLUTIONS.

Resolved, That the address be duly authenticated with the signature of the Committee of Arrangements and such other citizens as may desire to unite in this measure of grateful duty, and transmitted to the President.

Resolved, That the people of New-York are filled with admiration of the splendid combinations and dashing bravery which have marked the recent movements and conflicts on the battle-fields of Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas; and that Lieut.-Gen. GRANT, with Maj.-Gen. SHERMAN, and the officers and soldiers under their command, have covered themselves and the American name with imperishable renown.

Resolved, That while all the commanding Generals who have borne the national colors over fields of victory, deserve and will receive the plaudits of a grateful people, there are names which shine out with unequaled lustre, and our hearts are warmed and our eyes suffused with joy whenever we utter the names of SHERIDAN, the daring soldier, the successful leader, the chosen warrior of GRANT, of SHERMAN, THOMAS, MEADE, SCHOFIELD and TERRY, and others who have assisted to fill the measure of their country's glory.

Resolved, That this General Committee, in conformity with the terms of the resolution under which it was appointed, will celebrate at some fitting time and in an appropriate manner, to be hereafter determined, the victories achieved in securing the final triumphs of the Union cause, to the end that the people of New-York may have the opportunity to evince their gratitude and affection for the great leader of the American armies, ULYSSES S. GRANT, and the gallant officers and soldiers whose deeds have rendered his name immortal.

Resolved, That a Select Committee of fifty citizens be appointed by the chair, to be announced hereafter, to carry into effect the last preceding resolution.

Resolved, That copies of these proceedings be transmitted to the President and Lieut.-Gen. GRANT, and published.

The address was engrossed and signed by those present. To-day it will be placed in the rotunda of the Custom-house, and all citizens are requested to call and sign it.

Letter from Ex-Senator Henry S. Foote.

To the Editor of the Herald:

Those who know me best are quite aware that I have not been much in the habit of late years of taking formal and serious notice of personal allusions to me in the columns of newspapers, unless of a grave and serious character, and traceable directly to some source of known responsibility. Nor should I do so at present but for the public mischief which I fear might arise from entire silence on my part, in regard to the two successive articles which have appeared in your paper, (upon what precise authority I know not,) stating several particulars in relation to my recent arrival in this city, and touching the mode of my passage, &c., which have no foundation whatever in fact. It is not true, as your correspondent has published, that I ever said that I came from Europe in the steerage of the Etna mail steamer, not from want of funds, but in order to avoid Mr. SEWARD's "passport nuisance," so called. Fold not even know of Mr. SEWARD's recent regulations in regard to passports until I saw the publication of your correspondent. I have never said a word to any human being as to whether my present stock of money was large or small. I suppose that a reasonable presumption might be that a man who has been a refugee from his own home for the last three years, and who has been during that period remote from all his accustomed sources of pecuniary supply, might not carry his pockets quite as full of cash as many others who have been more favorably situated. All that I said on the subject of coming in the steerage was that I chose to come in as quiet and obscure a manner as possible, not having yet the consent of the government to visit New-York, and preferring to remain in privacy until the question could be finally settled whether or not President LINCOLN would deem it prudent to allow me to return to my own home in Nashville, there to remain in quiet until that unhappy war should have been brought to an end, the needless and sanguinary prolongation of which I do so deeply regret.

When I landed in New-York I immediately reported myself at Gen. DIX's headquarters, as he himself will attest, expecting, of course, to be detained in custody until my case could be disposed of. I have nothing to complain of in regard to the action of the Washington officials toward me. It is for them to determine, under all the trying circumstances which surround them, whether it would be altogether discreet to allow an individual to visit the populous portions of the South, who has been at one time a member of the Confederate Congress, who has neither received nor asked for any special exercise of Executive clemency in his own favor, and who has constantly avowed his determination to share the general fate of his fellow-citizens of the South heretofore engaged in this war, whatever that fate might be. To be sure, I came back across the ocean not altogether without a hope, which I must say I still confidently entertain, that, now that all these crushing military reverses have fallen upon the unhappy South which I apprehended and predicted four months ago, and the consequences likely to flow from which, as far as I could, I have labored earnestly to avert by timely efforts for peace, and now that the war has evidently at last reached its virtual termination, that I might be safely permitted to return to Tennessee, especially as it is a fact well known, that I have long since declared it to be my own clear conviction that both duty and policy alike demanded at the present moment that all who have been heretofore struggling in arms against the reëstablishment of Federal authority over all the territory of the republic, should at once desist from further opposition and submit themselves absolutely to the justice and clemency of the government, which I do not at all doubt will ultimately act in a manner suited to its own dignity and in consonance with a high-toned magnanimity and wise statesmanship.

Having been recently a visitor to the renowned City of Rome, and having four weeks ago had the honor of standing in the ancient forum, the air surrounding which may, with a slight stretch of imagination, be regarded as yet vocal with the sounds of Ciceronian eloquence, your own classic taste will allow me to conclude this short and hasty effusion by stating my own hearty approval of what the great Roman orator and statesman says in one of his letters to MARCELLUS, whom he was endeavoring to persuade to return home and accept the clemency of CÆSAR, after the renowned victory of Pharsalia, when the Pompeian faction, with which both of them stood connected, had been effectually destroyed. The portion of the letter referred to, and which it is my ardent wish that my chivalrous countrymen of the South would speedily apply to their own present unhappy case, is as follows: "Your conduct cannot but be greatly and universally applauded in having renounced the spirit of contention when you lost the hopes of success; and you showed by your own example that as a wise and honest patriot you will always enter into a civil war with reluctance, so he will never choose to carry it on to its last desperate extremity."

Not doubting your willingness to do justice to me individually, and to place the government also in a position calculated to encourage a prompt and cordial submission to its authority on the part of all those in the South now bearing arms in opposition to it, and hoping, likewise, that the day is not far distant when the good and true men both of the North and of the South shall become once more friends and brethren, as formerly, and generous coworkers in the cause of freedom, I have the honor to be your obedient servant,

H. S. FOOTE.

MONETARY AFFAIRS.

MONDAY, April 10—A. M.

Financially, the movement of the New-York markets the past week was to a general and very decided improvement, amounting to actual buoyancy so far as ease and confidence in the Money market and the rise on the Stock Exchange are indicative of the public feeling. There is a fall of 6 ℔ cent. in Gold, a rise of 2 ℔ cent. in the Public Stocks of the United States, an increase of a million a day in the subscriptions to the Popular 7-30 Loan, a rise of ten per cent. on Railway values, and a decline of one ℔ cent. in the rates of Money to the Brokers. The amount of Legal Tender Money held in the Banks, (old and National,) is over fifty millions, and the stock of Gold in Bank and in the Sub-Treasury Office nearly forty millions. In the former we include the National Banks not in the Clearing-house.

The change of situation and of confidence is the results of Victory and the near approach to the end of American Rebellion. The revolution in the views and reasoning of a large portion of the Stock Exchange in respect to the reception of Peace itself, and its probable influence upon Trade, Commerce, and Inland Transportation, is briefly but emphatically told in the facts that, while Gold is down 6 ℔ cent., the Stocks most immediately dependent upon the course of business after the Southern ports are all reopened, the blockade ended, and the planting States made free to let out their large reserves of Cotton, and to replenish their exhausted supplies of Merchandise and Provisions from the North and West, have gone up 10 ℔ cent. The bulk of Railway and Canal and Coal Transportation is not to be diminished, while the expenses of the Companies engaged therein by the fall in Gold, are to be greatly economized. The finances of these Companies, as a rule, are unembarrassed. The exceptions—prominent among which is counted the Erie Railway—are not incapable of early reforms by wiser and less extravagant management, and the cessation of jobbery among their Directors. Most of the Roads, both East and West, are on a regular and fair Dividend-paying basis, by no means equal, in many cases, in point of remuneration, to the Funded and Gold bearing Stocks and Popular Currency Loans of the Government, and in few or no cases equal in absolute certainty and security. Their reasonably assured incomes, however, to the Stockholders, are such as to render the recent panic depression in their Shares wholly unreasonable.

Trade also partially improved during the week in both Foreign and Domestic Merchandise. Consumers who held off while Gold was ruling above 200, are gradually coming into market since the fall below 150 ℔ cent. But the buying is still on a cautious scale, and is only encouraged by the free disposition of holders to take advantage of the steadiness in Gold to reduce their stocks in the expectancy of another fall of 15 or 20 ℔ cent., as the Cotton and other Produce Exchanges with Europe become more active. The Customs Duties in Gold are relatively larger than the new importation of Goods, showing that the large old stock in bond is being partially drawn upon.

The course of the Stock Exchange for the week past is thus indicated:

American Gold Coin	154@145@154@148½
U. S. 6 ℔ cents, 5-20 years	105½@107¼@107

Mariposa Gold	15¾@17@15¼

There was only one Stock Exchange Board to-day. The market for Government Stocks steady, and speculation in the New-York and Western Railways less buoyant than on Friday, and quite feverish on Erie shares at 68@65@66¼ ℔ cent. The Gold Room very quiet, and the range of sales 1 ℔ cent. higher than on Friday, say 150@149½@150½@148½ ℔ cent. Money very easy, all through the Street and at Bank, notwithstanding a rumor was started that the National Banks—which, by the way, do but little in the way of lending money at call except on Government Securities—were to be heavily drawn upon by the Treasury. The Trust Companies are free lenders, their balances having been considerably increased by Deposits on Stock Exchange time contracts. The practice on these contracts is a pledge of 10@20 ℔ cent. by both buyer and seller in some one of the Trust Offices.

About $400,000 California bar Gold was taken on Saturday for shipment to Europe by the day's steamers. The whole shipments of the day and week are $400,743. The Gold rates for Exchange on London are 108¾@109 ℔ cent.

Mr. C. E. GROESBECK, a young member of the New-York Stock Exchange Board, and late with Messrs. VERMILYE & Co., has established himself as a Broker in the United States Securities, Railway Stocks, Bonds, &c., at No. 30 Broad-street.

The first meeting of the Evening Exchange in GALLAGHER'S new building, adjoining the Fifth-avenue Hotel, will take place to-night. The old room, corner of Broadway and Twenty-third-street, will, therefore, be closed. The new establishment has been especially erected and most conveniently fitted up by the Messrs. GALLAGHER.

The Coal tonnage for the week past is 184,040 tons, of which 60,847 by the Reading road. This road is now 31,775 ahead of last season, say 902,032 as against 869,222 last year to date.

A correspondent requests a quotation of other Foreign Public Stocks than U. S. Five-Twenties in the London market, of European and South American States now at peace with the world and free from civil war or rebellion. He holds that after our troubles are settled and the empire of the United States once more consolidated, no Public Stock in the world will be entitled to a higher credit at home or abroad than the 5 and 6 per cents of the United States, in view of the security for prompt and unfailing interest in gold, and the resources, material, industrial and progressive, upon which the principal is made to rest, and which insure its liquidation. He is also confident, that so far from U. S. 5-20s now held in Europe, returning because of peace, the orders for and confidence in them will greatly increase, so long as they are by all odds the cheapest, as they are also the highest, interest-paying of all the Public Stocks of the world. In reply, we give the following quotations from among our late English files, as in Sterling Money, to which 10 ℔ cent. should be added to make the equivalent of Gold in New-York:

French 4½ ℔ cts	94¾	Turkish 6 ℔ cts	94½
Brazilian 4½ ℔ cts	83	Buenos Ayres 6 ℔ cts	92
Peruvian 4½ ℔ cts	82	Chilian 6 ℔ cts	103
